Through a strategic implementation partnership with Syngenta, which delivers on-ground agronomic projects on our behalf, to provide farmers with training, inputs, and best-practice protocols designed to reduce pesticide reliance and improve crop health and yields. Our integrated supply chain approach ensures full traceability from field to mill and meets stringent international quality and safety standards. Sustainability is central to our operations: we are actively reducing on-farm carbon emissions through improved agronomy, optimized fertilizer and water use, and adoption of low emission practices, while developing verified carbon-credit programmes to monetise and scale these climate benefits. Together, these initiatives strengthen farmer livelihoods, uphold consumer safety, and advance our commitment to measurable carbon-reduction goals and long-term environmental stewardship.
